

ADVERTORIAL

International Day Against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking falls on every June 26. On this day, the city lights up in the colours of the anti-drug ribbon, which makes me feel proud to support the #DrugFreeSG cause.

Anne Megan Kong, an Anti-Drug Advocate, shares how she discovered her passion for volunteering

Curiosity led this 20-year-old bookworm with a love for crime thrillers on a path of volunteering. After reading about the ills of drug abuse, she signed up as an Anti-Drug Advocate (ADA) to share the anti-drug message with her peers. Read on to learn what Megan does as an ADA!

I've always loved reading. Some stories I've read showed the harms that drug abuse can cause on a person and their loved ones. This inspired me to sign up as an ADA.

When a friend is stressed, I always lend a listening ear. I help them come up with other ways to feel better and make the right choices.

It's important to raise awareness, so I'm working on a website to educate children on the harms of drugs.

Meeting new people is my favourite part! It's a fulfilling experience to share with others the importance of leading a drug-free life.

Are you passionate about the anti-drug cause like Megan? Keen to meet other like-minded individuals? Scan to find out how you can be an ADA too.
